The Ferry Brothers will hardly be able to pay ten cents on the dollar to those whose claims are secured. Those who did not get security will probably not get a

The new version of the matter is the following, from the Philadelphia Times: "It is a good deal easier for a rich man to enter the sonate than for a camel to pass through the eye of a needle."

When Henry Ward Beecher delivered his lecture on the moral rise of beauty and luxury, he took occasion to condemn the dresses made by Worth, of Paris, for the reason that he never saw one but that was six inches too short at one and and three feet too long at the other.

Mrs. Langtry will take in some of the smaller cities when her southern tour is finished; but many of these "smallercities" refuse to pay the price for having the beautiful Lily with them one night. Racine in this state could have had her for $1,200, but refused. Terre Haute. Indiana, has offered $1,500 and will get her, and the people are already grumbling because they will have to pay two dollars a head to see her try to act. It is easy to dispose of this matter. People who do not want to get humbuged must not pay the two dollars.

The more the tariff bills in congress are discussed, the worse grows their condition. There has been so much random talking over tariff reform, such an aimless persistency in the acting of a majority of the members of both houses, that the remaining time for work is so short that there is hardly a glimmer of hope that there will be any tariff reform given the people this season. The reform needed will never be inaugurated under a democratic majority in the house. The opportunity to do the country a service this session has been virtually thrown

The elements are still working destruction in this country, and it has been said that it seems very probable that we are about to experience on this continent the elemental phenomena which have recently produced such memorable and disastrous floods in Europe, and already the devastation along some of our western rivers resembles the calamities on the Rhine and the Danube. Such frightful naundations mark the progress of the destruction of woodlands, and the accompanying conditions, which gave us exceptionally low water in dry weather, and extraordinarily high water after heavy

There has been a revolution created in California in regard to the use of small coins-nickels and ten-cent pieces. The legislature compalled the street ear companies to reduce their fare to five cents and this started the demand for nickels. Small coin have been looked upon with contempt by the people of California, but since the legislature inaugurated a reform the demand for small pieces has been enormous, so much so, that the mand. This demand for small coins will compel the mint in San Francisco, which has not been coining anything but one dollar silver pieces, and twenty-dollar gold pieces, to coin ten and fivecent pieces. When a penny, or even a nickel, will become popular in California, the people there are on the high road to

That pretty little body who goes through the world with as much modesty as the average woman of common sense-Adelma Patti-has been in Cincinnati during the past week and put up at the Grand hotel. People high in social and political power and great in wealth, called upon her to do her homage. But there was another class that througed her rooms nearly the whole of one day, and these were children who went to see greatest singer of the age. They occupied all stations in life. Some were poor and clad in homely suits, while others were born rich and were attired in costly apparel. But Adelina Patti knew no rank when the little ones crowded her rooms. The woman who sings as woman never sang before, and before whom kings and emperors have knelt, had a kiss and a kind word for each. She made their little hearts glad and made them feel the mighty power of kindness. It is not every woman in Patti's station that would do as Patti did to the multitude of children who went to tue Grand to simply get a look at her. She is as great in deeds as in voice, and the world admires her all the more for it,

According to the "Financial Almanack" for 1883, published in London, a book which gives official figures, the cost of running the British government during 1982, was $450,000,000. The expenditure in the United States for that time were $257,000,000. England paid $160,000,000 for interest on the public debt, the United States $71,000,000. Her army cost $90,-000,000, ours only about $26,000,000, and her navy $60,600,000, while that of this country was $15,000,000. The queen and the royal family were paid $5,-000,000, and this included $180,000 spent upon royal yachts. The 516 peers of the house of lords receive in pay and penhouse of lords receive in pay and pensions $4,000,000 annually, and these peers own land amounting to a little over fourteen million acres, from which they receive an annual rental of $60,000,000. The peers of the house of lords receive nearly one-third as much as the entire civil list of the United States including both houses of congress. One curious thing connected with the English government is the public pensions—not those who have been pensioned on account of military service—but those who have filled civil positions. Ten thousand persioners draw $25,000,000 (an average of $2,500 each) annually for services in India; and besides them are 150,250 other pensioners, who draw $35,000,000 more from the public treasury. Some of these of draw pensions for the reason that public offices that they had filled for years had been abolished. One of these has received $15,000 a year since 1847, and another $5,000. This is one of the bad features of the British civil pension list. These pensioners draw annually a good support simply because they had been in the public employ, their salaries are continued after they have ceased to render any service, and toward the payment of which salaries the working classes are compelled indirectly to con-

BLOOD STAINS.

A Wealthy Young Baltimorean's Lovely Wife Found to Have a Black Drop in Her Veins.

Given Away by Her Mulatto Grand-Mother, Through Her Insatiate Passion for Gambling.

BALTIMORE, Feb. S .- One of the most sensational and interesting divorce sults ever enacted on the legal stage in this country will, at an early day, ongago the astute and shining Blackstone talent of this city. The remantic details of this peculiar life drama will cortainly cause the gossips, not only of this particular locality but of the ontire United States, to wag their respective tongues with great velocity, and to roll their individual oyes with oaruost amazement. The story reads like a romance, but every word is as true as gold.

Five years ago, among the "young bloods" of Baltimore there was numbered a young gentleman, who, by a happy combination of art and nature, was entitled to a high soat in the avena of life. He was youthful, twenty-three years of age, handsome in face and stately and dignified in form. He was the happy possessor of $100,000, solely invested in registered United States bonds, bequeathed to him by an aged grandmother. The young man had a very aristocratic and wealthy mother, and she was extremely particular in reference to her son's choice of a domestic partner for life. On a bright, frosty morning in the month of January, 1877, the young man entered a fashionable kid glove setablishmen; on Lexington street, this city, for the purpose of purchasing street, this city, for the purpose of purchasing a No. 7 lady's kid glove, which was the size that snugly meased his small and fluoly formed hand. There, to compress an individual world into a few words, he met his destioy. The young salesiady who waited on him was a boautiful brunette, with a most engaging mien. It was the old and yet ever new story. When he ampuneed to his mother he was going to marry this young lady there was a total munihilation of the domestic pages in that Madison avenue mansion. As may be imagined the marriago caused a serious discription of family these but as the young lady behaved so well marriago caused a serious disruption of family ties; but as the young lady behaved so well under the elecuratances, she was so protty and bowitching and kind in manner to her mother-in-law, that old lady at last relegated.

Two years later the young couple were happily keeping house in a luxurious manuer, and the joyous prospective father was well-known as a shrewd and energetic broker. At this period of the young husband's existence he discovered that his wife was using large amounts of money in a very mysterious manuer. He began to expostulate with her. "Dear," he kindly said, "I am wealthy, I know, but I cannot stand those mysterions and heavy drafts. What do you do or want with all this money." She returned confused and evasive replies, and the young husband was much per-

"Dear," he kindly said, "I sail wosteny, is know, but I cannot staud those mysterions and heavy drafts. What do you do or waut with all this monoy?" She returned confused and evasive replies, and the young husband was much perplayed by his wife's psculiar bolaydor.

About this time the proprietors and patrons of the "bucket-shops" and low gambling reserved that the city were greatly amazed by the behavior and display of wealth which an aged colored woman detighted them with. She was a very light mulatto about the exact shade, as far as complexion wont, of an ordinary crossin puff, with a couple of tablespoonfuls of gionger in its culinary made-up. She was a most inordinate gambler, seemed to be completely carried away by the passion of chance, and, while a constant and heavy losser, was never short for over a couple of hours at a time. She actually appeared to own a gold mine. Where she got her money no one knew, and she never told, but she had it, and that way 4!! that was necessary for the particular business she was then engaged."

One fine day the young broker found himself the proouf father of a red-haired, dimpled boy. He then did not find so much fault with his wife for what he considered her extrayagant and useless expenditure of monay, and suppreme content and unalloyed happiness held high carnival within his castle walls. One morning when his cooing baby, new aged meanly 2 years, sat on his maternal grandmothor's knee, a colored servant brought her a letter, fresh from the hand of the wiry man in modest gray. She opened it with a smill hard left her, written in an almost illegible hand, and with an abundant amount of phonetic spelling, contained the following starting words:

"Your son's wife is a nigger. He married a nigger. I am her grandmothor, and I am what they call a nigger. He married a nigger. I am her grandmother, and he had on the foot. The lefter, written in an almost illegible hand, and when the fates' in the case became so convince that the note contained the truth. However, when the husb grandfather was a white man and life paronts were white, her mother having beau more successful at deception in this line with her husband than the young-wife had been with her young broker husband. The beautiful lequiptle wife their captainty had a very slight negree element in her physical make-up. It appears that the gld colored grandmother had for yours obtained "hush money" from the wife which she spent on her ruling passion-blood in her voins.

COL. COPPINGER.

The Romance of Miss Blaine's Marriage.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3.-Miss Blaine this time last year did not know of the existence of her now liego lord. Just as the gay season was concluding here last winter she went to Loavenworth, Kansas, to pay a visit to hor friend, the wife of Gen. Dunn, who was Miss Morrill, of Maine, before her marriage. There she me Col. Coppinger, and her stay was rendered so agreeable that it lengthened into six weeks. Since her return an active correspondence was kept up, culminating in an engagement before the new year. When Mrs. Blaine was in New York, this year, with her daughter, the colonel met them by accident, and formally asked for the hand of Miss Alice. The Blaines were considerably astonished, and more so when the groom-elect desired an immediate marriage. There were many difficulties to overcome, but

There were many difficulties to overcome, but the happy couple started in with such determination that the wedding-day was aunounced over a month ago, and active proparations for its brilliant coremonies were put in progress. The bride is a fine-looking young girl, with straight features and dark hair, her profile resembling her methers. She is of medium and graceful figure. She has not taken kindly to society, and did not make her debut until her father was in the cabinot, and then her appearances were rure. In early life she gave evidence of a vigorous intellect, and has since been regarded as serious and thoughtfu, very different from the rierage society girl. For several years she has evinced a decided liking for the doctrines of the Catholic church, and it is regarded as a culmination of her wishes in that particular that she was pleased to marry with the blossing of that faith. This is said to have been one of the strongest objections on the part of her parents against her union with a Catholic, as necessarily a priest of his religion should perform the coroniony.

The groom is about forty-eight years old, nearly twice the age of the bride. He is a fine-looking man, with gray hair, and is faced well, marked with lines showing his exposure on the field. He is a native of Cork, Ireland, and comes of a family first in deeds of valor and benevolence, of whom many distinguished members are yet in their old ancestral homes. His family record shows a line of names—a bishop, priest and nuns—prominent in religions life in Ireland. He came to this country when twenty-four years of age, one of ten, sent for by Archbishop Hughes to command Iriely voluntor armies. He served with distinction here, and inten, when an affect of the Papal guards, received special commendation from Pius IX. He is now on Gen. Popo's staff, attained at Fort Leavenworth, Kan, where after the bridal tour, he he will take his bride and resumn duty. When asking for the was a total stranger, he nodestly said that he bride and resume duty. When asking for the hand of his bride of her parents, to whom he was a total stranger, he modestly said that he referred them to his superior officers and his war department record. It is surmised from their accoplance that both were thought sufficient.

French Affairs.

Paris, Feb. 7.—Sweeping changes in the ministry, making virtually a new cabinet, are expected to be gazetted Sunday night. It is even said that Goneral Thebaudin, minister of war, will be the only member of the present war, will be the only member of the present ministry remaining. Legrand, a former minister of marine is mentioned for the ministry of foreign affairs.

Julge Ferry yestorday recommended President Grovy to expel the Orleans princes by decroe. Grevy hesitates to take such a course, but it will probably be adopted by a ministry formed under Forry.

BERLIN, Feb. S.—Referring to the discussion in France on General Thebaudin's conduct at Metz. The Kranz Zeitung says: "The government is right in deeming it a matter for the French people and the army to consider whether they are willing to except as the highest representative of the army a general who had broken his word of honor."

The Floods.

From Pittsburg southwestward the Ohio is booming, and flooding the country in all direczons. Numerous towns are inundated, and the residents have been compelled to seek shelter in tall buildings. The amount of property destroyed is large, and the item of live stock alone will reach a high figure. Sections of Pittsburg and Allogbony are submorged, with the rivers still rising, and the greatest inundation on record is expected taday. Some manufacturing establishments have been closed, and mills at various towns, as well as general traffic, have been compelled to suspond. Every family in the town of Florida, Ohio, has been driven from their homes, and the breaking of the canal banks at Napoleon has everthowed the surremaining sections. The Susquehanna is gorged at Port Deposit, Md., and the citizens are taking extra precautions to gave their property. the residents have been compelled to seek property.

FOREPAUGH'S BEAUTY.

JANESVILLE. WISCONSIN, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 8, 1883.

Why She Refused to Travel With "the Gang" .-- Secrets of the Show Business.

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 8.-In the common pleas court, part No. 1, before Judge Pierce, the suit of Louise Montagne, Adam Foregaugh's $10,000 beauty, who claims salary for breach of contract, was resumed yesterday. The court room was crowded with apectators and the "beauty" occupied a seat close to her counsel, Mosers. Heverin and Shakespeare, while the defendant, Mr. Forepaugh, sat with his advisors, Mossrs. White and Brown.

Miss Montague said upon cross-examination that she nover made application for employment subsequent to her contract with Mr. Forepaugh. Early in March last she received a Forepaugh, Early in March last she received a note from Mr. Forepaugh requesting to see her and when she called on him he asked whether she had written a letter to Mr. Builoy, intimating that she would not travel with the show, but she "disremembered" of doing so.

Mr. Coup, of Coup's circus, she said, offered her $200 a week, but she refused to go with him under any terms. She said she had plenty of applications for her services, and being asked what they were replied with marked emphasis, "I will not tell; that is my private affair."

She admitted that Eiralfy was one of her last applicants and also that she could have done a great deal befor after her contract with Forepaugh. She said the latter called on her several times in reference to a suit for $25,000 against a railroad for alleged injuries received, and that she finally sottled with the company's counsel for $500.

Mr. Forepaugh was examined. He said he met her one day when she said: "De I travel with the gang next season?" and he answered he guessed so. "She came into my office one day and said, "Hurry up and open that drawer where you keep your chack-book," but as I did not do so she became very angry and said, "You have loaned me money before, why not mov?' adding 'All right. A NEW SCHEME.

Mr. Belford's Plan for the Construction of a Rallroad to Central and South America.

Washington, Feb. 8.—Representative Belford is preparing a speech to deliver as soon as the tariff bill is out of the way, in support of the bill he introduced a day or two ago to bring about closer commercial relations between this country and Central and South America. The bill provides for the appointment of a commissioner, with a liberal salary, to visit the different countries of Contral and South America and make a thorough and exhaustive investigation of the agricultural, commercial and mineral resources. The commissioner is to make a report of the regult of his researches so that congress may; be able to act intelligently, so Mr. Bedford says, on all matters of legislation that may be proposed for the purpose of giving this country control of the Control and South American commerce. Mr. Belford was asked if there was any object in his bill which did not appear on the face of it. He said there was. On being questioned further He said: "The real purpose of the bill is to control the trade of Central and South America by means of railways. We have been trying for a good many years to gain a foothold in Mexico and in all the countries south of Mexico, but thus far we have fuiled. England, France and Germany hold the commerce of these countries with the grasp of steel. As long as we depend upon ships we are beaten. If you will notice our consular reports you will see that the trade of these countries is well worth having, and it can be made far more valuable than it is. We are: beginning to push railways into Mexico, and in the next two or three years, if the railway building goes on as it is going on now, we shall have more of the Mexican trade than we would have got without railroads in fifty years. My plan is to push a system of railway to the isthmus; in fact far into South America. In my judgment, inside of twenty years we shall be going to South America by rail. The schome may seem rather Utopian at the first glance, but when you come to think about it you will come to the conclusion that it is not only practicable but reasonable. When it is fully understood and when the wealth of these Central and South America to difficulty about getting the necessary capital to build the railway. It will not be long before I can start from Donver, on the Donyer and New Orloans railway, and land in the city of Mexico without change of cars, and if I am not mistaken I will be able to go by rail to the isthmus of Panama long before the Panama canal is completed. The report of the commissioner for whose appointment my bill prayidos will give Bedford says, on all matters of legislation that may be proposed for the pur-Panna long before for Patients Estat to pletted. The report of the commissioner for whose appointment my bill pravides will give this Central and South American scheme of mine a boom that will set it going and keep it going until steel unties South and North America."

IOWA PROHIBITIONISTS.

A Split in the Convention Upon the Report of the Committee on Resolu-

DES MOINES, Iowa, Feb. 8.—The state Prohibition convention was called to order yesterday at 11 o'clock by B. F. Wright, of Floyd county, and Hon. Asron Kimball, of Howard county, was elected temperary chairman. President Kimball, on taking the chair, out lined no action, but simply said though they had been defeated they were not disheartened, for the majority at the polls in June last was an assurance that the body of the people were right; and ultimate auccess was assured. Various committees were appointed. So far as various committees were appointed. So far as can be learned, the majority of the convention is in favor of an extra season of the legislature. The question will clicit a warm discussion. The convention is quite large.

As business progressed the convention seemed possessed of an enthulasm approaching the uproarious in character.

Chairman Wilson, of Tama county, is an experienced parliamenterian, and he held the convention well in hand.

Everything moved along smoothly until the report of the committee on resolutions was received, when a voluntinous debate ensued, and though conducted under the five minute rule, extended well into the night. The rock upon which the convention split was the question of making a formal demand upon the governor which the convention split was the question of making a formal demand upon the governor for an extra session of the legislature for the purpose of re-submitting the prohibitory amendment and for enacting a statute law to suppress the sale of wine and beer. The committee itself had divided six to five, the minority favoring the extra session and the majority keeping silence. It was not till after 10 clock that the pravious question was fluid; but and sustained and ous question was finally put and sustained and the minority report adopted by a vote of 491% to 225% against

"PLUCK ME" STORES

And Co-Operation Explained to the Senate Labor Committee:

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8.—The examination (Robert D. Layton was continued before the sonate committee on education and labor, on the different kinds of work in iron mills and the wages paid for each. The iron-workers were paid better than coal-miners. The latter were paid better than coal-miners. The latter were compelled by the employer or operator, on penalty of discharge, to deal altogether at "Pluck Me" stores, owned by the employer, and to pay higher prices for everything than they would be obliged to pay elsewhere; they also had to buy all them looks; lamps, oil, powder, etc., out of their wages, which averaged not more than $350 per year.

At its law session the Pennsylvania legislature passed an act prohibiting "pluck-me"

At its last session the Pennsylvania legislaturo passed an act prohibiting "pluck-me" stores, but some of the legal lights of that sate had made holes in it, and it was really inoperative. He said the co-operation plan of the order was the Rochdale system of England. A certain per cent of the profits was divided each quarter among the patrons of the store, not stockholders. Their most successful store of this kind was at Shawnee, O. The Knights of Labor would like to see a law passed prohibiting sambling by speculation in the necessaries of life, particularly in breadstuffs, and also a national eight-hour law, applied to all work-men dot in the government employ.

A Talk With Windom.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—Senator Windom was at the Fifth Avenue hotel last evening. Your correspondent who met him as he was passing through the corridor, saked if there was any foundation for the rumor that he is to succeed Secretary Frelinghuysen.
"If there is," was Sonator Windom's response,
"I know nothing about it. I have seen it in "I know nothing about it. I have seen it in the newspapers, but have no personal information on the subject." The Sonator was asked if it is true that he is to engage in business in Now York, reference being made to the reports that he is to connect himself with certain enterprises here. "There is no truth in the stories," he replied, "my future movements are of course unsettled. I do not know that I shall remain in Washington—neither do I know that I shall not do so."

LAMAR'S SPEECH.

The Mississippi Senator Likens the Power of the Manufacturers Unto That Possessed by the Slave Oligarchy Before the Rebellion. Washington, Feb. 8.—Yesterday Senator Lucius O. C. Lamar made the most striking speech of the entire tariff discussion. He speaks very rarely. He soldom asks a question during debate. His silence is in marked contrast with the majority of the southern senstors. For a number of years he was professor of political economy in the college at Oxford, Miss. Ho has road all the literature on political economy, and is regarded as a great authority upon this subject. For the last anthority upon this subject. For the last three or four years he has been in feeble health. He spoke for nearly two hours, and when he had inished he was physically exhausted, and was almost ready to raint. He had profound attention upon the Democratic side, and was not interrupted once during the two hours of his very interesting talk. It looked as if the professor was again before his class. He had pilled in front of him great heaps of books which he haudled with the ease and doxterity of a student. It was almost the first speech that took in a broad range of view, and whether those who listened agreed with the speaker or not, they certainly found that the tariff in at those who listened agreed with the speaker or not, they certainly found that the tariff in at least one speech was not discussed upon the narrow busts of local interest. There was just one key-note to the speech, and that was the unnatural and abnormal development of this power of the manufacturing interest. He said that protection meant high taxes. He wanted the people to have the matter explained to tham clearly throughout the broadth of the land. There was a demand for the reduction of taxes. He wanted congress to say to the country. It you want protection you must consent to pay the cost of maintaining that system, and scorn the allurements of low taxes and cheap allurements of low taxes and cheap foreign goods." He closed in a most effective percention, in which he likened the power of the manufacturers to the power of the manufacturers to that of the slave power before the war. The latter fell with a crash because its supporters were blind to the future. The handwriting was on the wall predicting the destructfrom or the gigantic monopolies which are now fastened upon the material interests of the country, and he trusted that they would yet open their eyes to see before the inevitable ruin and downfall should come.

WHOLESALE GRAVE-ROBBERY.

Scores of Bodies Taken from Their Resting Places and Shipped to the United States.

MONTREAL, Feb. 8.—Thure has been a great deal of excitement existing in the country distries around Mantreal since the beginning of winter, about the wholesale thatt of dead bodies from the cemetery vaults, where they are deposited until snow disappears. The aggregate number on record in the police reports as stolen so far this winter is 145. It has been discovered by the authorities that this city has been made the center for procuring subjects for colleges in the United States as well as hereabouts. One-half of those brought to this city have been sent to Burlington, Vt., Boston, onty have been sent to northington, At, bestin, Philadelphia, Chicago, and as far as Ann Arbor. It appears that the laws in certain states are far more rigid than on this side. Prices here range from $40 to $50, and across the border as high as $80 is freely paid. A gang of desperadoes are said to live on the proceeds of their infamous occupation. Not a single conviction has been obtained against a resurrectionist, although many have single conviction has been obtained against a resurrectionist, although many have gone through the form of a trial. The relatives of the deceased persons, who are goverally poor, are always bought off by the friends of the prisoners. The government of Quebec has introduced a bill giving power to local medical colleges to claim friendless corpses in hospitals, jails and poor-houses. The penal clauses, however, are of a severe nature, directed against maurrectionists. rected against resurrectionists.

Shortly after confidence being placed in him. Shortly after dark, Scheller quietly left the jail and walked to the house where his wife and son were. When he ontered the room, a most heartrending scene curued. The little boy was perfectly conscious, and scened so delighted to see his father that he cried with joy, and tears fairly streamed down his checks. Scheller was greatly affected, and completely broke down. He bent low over his injured boy and wept bitterly. The little follow told him he was going to die, and related how many beautiful angels he had seen, and how good they would be to him. Mr. Scheller and all of the others who were in the room were also greatly affected, and the whole scene was peculiarly affected,

He been hard at work settling up his private business in Bloomington, and therefore had given the subject little or no thought. Harry F. Dorwin, for some years private secretary to Gov. The Cullom and the Hamilton families lunched together at the mansion, after which Gov. Cul-lom's family were driven to his home in the city. After some further discussion all the remainder of the wool schodule except the para-graph embracing "wobbing, goring, belting, etc." was informally bassed over in order to give the committee on finance an apportunity to consider it further. The paragraphs thus passed over embrace women and children's dress goods, clothing carnet, and ondiess bois

The sundries schedule was then taken up, and several changes made. On reaching the

Mr. Anderson offered an amendment, to come in after the head-line of the schedule, consisting of metal achedule, as agreed upon by the cenate. He submitted that if it was intended to pass any turiff bill this assain, it could only be done by meeting the medium views as expressed by the senate schedule. If that were done, the country could got tariff legislation.

The gentleman on the other side could offer any amendment they wished. This was fair to everybody. Mr. Page inquired whether Mr. Anderson's

Mr. Andersor replied that he would answer that question when the proper time came.

Mr. Robinson, of Massachusetts, rose to a point of order that Anderson's amendment was not in order, and a long discussion ensued, the Republicans contonding that as the amond-ment was in fact a substitute, it could not be considered until the house schedule had been completed. Finally the chair suctained the completed. Finally the chair suctained the point of order, and the question recurred on Kelloy's amendment, and after a protracted discussion it was lest—77 to 106.

Those ad-dresses comprise the names of the principal business firms sending and receiving cable dispatches in this country. each of these registered addresses is appended one word, which represents it in all cable messages. This one word is always telegraphed instead of the address. One object of this registration is to save the expense of telegraphing. As the cost of cable dispatches is fifty cents a word, it will readily be seen that very considerable amount is saved thirty messages a day are sent both ways. A firm of both names would thus save nearly $100 a day. Another object is to secure the utmost certainty of prompt delivery. Much money is also saved in telegraphing, not only by cable but by land lines, in the use of codes. All the leading branches of business have these codes, by means of which long messages may be sent by the use of a few words. There is no extra charge for sending code messages by cable, as the words are always those that may be found in the dictionary. But there are many cipher dispatches sent composed of letters or figures. These are

Clinical lectures will last, of course, but their chief value depends not so much upon the lecture as upon its practical, living illustrations. All ambitious students now read up the diseases pointed out to them as soon as possible after the close of the clinic."

-Parlor gymnastics: Miss Notebanger had just finished a "difficult" music upon the pianoforte. "Beautiful, isn't it?" remarked a young lady.
"Yes," replied Fogg. "Splendid exercise. Superior to Indian clubs or dumbbells, but rather exhausting to a beginner, I should say."-Boston Transcript.

-"Why, what is the matter with your hands?" asked the eldest Miss Burnside of Algernon Selkirk, who was making an evening call. "I was out this afternoon taking a little turn at the oars," replied Algernon, the athelete, "and the damp wind has chapped them." "Isn'tit too funny how you men will go out in cold, stormy weather just for exercise," Miss Burnside girlishly remarked, and then she murmured in a getting-well-on-towards-thirty-year-old tone of voice and gazing at her shapely wedding ringless fingers, "I would like to have my hands chap-ed." The One Now Reing Built Over Rock River by the Northwesteen and St. Paul Railway Companies, in this wooden railroad bridge which spans Rock river in this city above the mill dam of the upper water power is progressing as rapidly as the extreme cold weather will permit. The cold weather, together with the fact that the bridge is covered with snow and ice, compells the workmen to be continually on their guard, to avoid any serious accidents. The old bridge is being taken down by sections, and a temporary trestle work is being constructed in its place, resting on a foundation of piling, for the purpose of allowing trains to pass uninterrupted while the new iron bridge is being placed in position. The work of tearing out the old bridge and building the treatle work is being dene under the supervision of Mr. Henry Crave, the superintendent of the Chicago & Northwestern company bridges, and has been going on for some days past under the most unfavorable circumstances, the men being at work on the bridge when the mercury in the thermometers registered several degrees below zero. The trestle work is being so constructed that it will not interfere with the putting up of the new iron bridge, but will rather aid the workmen in so doing; when the iron bridge is com pleted the trestle work will be taken down, the piling removed and the river again left free. THE IRON BRIDGE.

The iron bridge, which is being put up in the place of the old wooden structure, is what is known as the "steel pin connection wrought iron truss bridge," manufactured by the Key stone bridge company. of Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, the entire bridge being built in Pittsburg, and shipped to this city, all ready to be put up. The bridge consists of three spans, of one hundred and twenty three feet each, the entire length of the bridge, from end to end stringers being 383 feet. The height is twenty-two feet ten inches from the masonary; width twenty-four feet ten inches, of seven stringers, accommodating two tracks, or what is called a double bridge. The entire weight of this bridge. when ready to receive the railroad track will not be far from 692,046 pounds, that being the billed weight of the freight transportation to this city. The cost of the entire work of the bridge when ready for the track, will be in the neighborhood of sand original effects, has never been ex-$25,000, which does not include the re-celled in this city. "Squatter Sover-eignty" humor is of a cluss which berett moval of the old bridge and the building and removal of the trestle work. The bridge will be completed and ready for use by the railway companies about the first of April, perhaps sooner if the weather is favorable. The work of putting up this bridge is under the superintendence of the Messrs. Baird Brothers, of Pittsburg, Mr. Robert Baird being here, and giving the work his personal attention. The Baird Brothers are extensively engaged in the bridge building business, having been contractors on some of the largest bridges in the country, including the great St. Louis bridge, the one at Newport, at Parkersburg, and many other points. They will employ about twenty men in putting up the Janesvillo bridge. The bridge, with the exception of a few delayed cars, is all here, and is being unloaded along the railroud track at the west end of the old bridge, and makes quite a large pile of iron altogether, consisting of heavy iron trusses, rods and bolts, and all the stays. stringers, and other materials of the complete bridge. This bridge will be more

Closing Out in Earnest.

The old reliable clothing firm of M. C. Smith & Son announce in this issue of the Gazette their determination to close out their mammoth stock of clothing, preparatory to dissolving partnership. This is no humbug announced for the purpose of drawing trade, but is a genuine sale. This firm stands in the front rank of the clothing firms in southern Wisconsin; it has always had the reputation of selling the best of goods at as low prizes as any other dealers, and that, too, on the one-price system. They have always taken a great pride in having their goods plainly marked, and sell according to that mark. Now that they propose to close out and wind up their business, they offer extraordinary inducements to buyers of clothing, that all will profit by giving them a call. They carry one of the largest stocks to be found in any retail store in the state, which embraces every article in the trade, the entire stock of which is to be closed out regardless of cost. Call on M. C. Smith & Son, and be convinced of these facts.

"Bquatter Sovereignty."

To-morrow evening Hanley's "Squatter Sovereignty company will appear at Myers' opera house. As to what this company can do in the way of amusing the people, we take the following from the Pittsburg Telegraph:

M. W. Hanley's "Squatter Sovereignty" made an instantaneous hit at the opera house last night. The theater was filled from orchestra to gallery; the laughter and enthusiasm was uninterrupted over a performance which, for unique features of much of the vulgar aroma frequently encountered, is just as pleasing to the senses of more fastidious and sedate amusement seckers. The play is not a mere sketch, long drawn out, but is rather a series of many sketches and incidents, drawn within a certain scope, so that the rush of new effects, novel surprises and side-aplitting episodes is unbroken until the final fall of the curtain. Owing to the enterprise displayed by Manager Hanley, the interpretation of the many different characters is in the hands of company eminently qualified to do them full justice. In their keeping, the effects are brought out in strong relief, and not counting out the donkey, the goat, the geese, the pigs, &c., the entire cast utilized in the performance is thoroughly efficient. The scenery is new and novel, and is carried by the company.
